12. Training.

No reports had been received. Following consideration, members felt the ACAS training event in Birmingham on 3rd June at a cost of £95 was too expensive and that other training priorities may be assessed later in the year.

13. Clerk's Report.

The Clerk had not prepared the latest information on salary comparisons to budget due to the other priorities at financial year end and the bank holiday closure. She had confirmed the council's pleasure in being able to assist with the presentation of a BEM to the chairman of a local charity and arrangements were now underway. She had been due to review the usage by SMBC of the meeting room at the council office but felt this should be deferred to July when more data would be available. She had not yet requested the quote for website alterations but made the web manager aware that his input would be required after his holiday. A member of staff had called the police after an incident at the weekend and members requested an update when the Clerk had received more information.
